

BLACK HISTORY MONTH FEBRUARY 2022 BLACK HEALTH & WELLNESS

Hillsborough County
PUBLIC SCHOOLS
Preparing Students for Life

2022 Black History Theme Executive Summary

Black Health and Wellness

The theme for 2022 focuses on the importance of Black Health and Wellness. This theme acknowledges the legacy of not only Black scholars and medical practitioners in Western medicine, but also other ways of knowing (e.g., birthworkers, doulas, midwives, naturopaths, herbalists, etc.) throughout the African Diaspora. The 2022 theme considers activities, rituals and initiatives that Black communities have done to be well.

In order to foster good health and wellness Black people have embarked on self-determination, mutual aid and social support initiatives to build hospitals, medical and nursing schools (i.e. Meharry Medical College, Howard University College of Medicine, Provident Hospital and Training School, Morehouse School of Medicine, etc.) and community clinics. Clinics were established by individuals, grassroots organizations and mutual aid societies, such as the African Union Society, National Association of Colored Women and Black Panther Party, to provide spaces for Black people to counter the economic and health disparities and discrimination that are found at mainstream institutions. These disparities and anti-Blackness led to communities developing phrases such as “When white folks catch a cold, Black folks get pneumonia.” Initiatives to help decrease disparities have centered several outcomes, including having more diverse practitioners and representation in all segments of the medical and health programs including such as the Ronald E. McNair Scholars. Even the impact of popular culture texts like Doc McStuffins cannot be dismissed.

The rise of fields, such as Public and Community Health and Health Informatics have led to a rise in preventive care and a focus on body positivity, physical exercise, nutrition, exploring other dietary options such as veganism and vegetarianism, and gardening. Black Health and Wellness not only includes one’s physical body, but also emotional and mental health. At this point in the 21st century, our understanding of Black health and wellness is broader and more nuanced than ever. Social media and podcasts, such as The Read, hosted by Crissle and Kid Fury have normalized talking about mental health and going to therapy as well as initiatives such as Therapy for Black Girls. More of us understand the need to hold down, lift up, center, and fight fiercely for our beloved trans siblings and family. Black girls are doing breathwork, and there are whole yoga studios dedicated to people of color.

Mindful of Sister Audre Lorde’s words, we are doing more to move forward holistically for the betterment of ourselves, our bodies, our relationships, our communities, and our planet.

We are determined to create a platform that shines a light on the multiple facets of Black health and wellness through education and activism. There is much to uncover, amplify, question, and correct.

In the still overhanging shadow of the COVID-19 pandemic, Black people should and do use data and other information-sharing modalities to document, decry, and agitate against the interconnected, intersecting inequalities intentionally baked into systems and structures in the U.S. for no other reason than to curtail, circumscribe, and destroy Black well-being in all forms and Black lives. Moreover, Black communities must look to the past to provide the light for our future, by embracing the rituals, traditions and healing modalities of our ancestors. These ways of knowing require a decolonization of thought and practice.

Celebrating Black History Month

Hillsborough County Public Schools will honor and recognize Black History Month from February 1 – February 28, 2022. With over 46,000 students in our district identifying as Black/African-American, our district believes that the cultures of all students and their families are important. As Black History Month is a time to honor the accomplishments, legacies, and impact of Black people throughout history, it is also a time to cherish the Black culture and leaders of today.

This month, we give tribute to African Americans who have made major positive contributions to our local community, the state, nation and the world. We value the attributes & wisdom of our African American students, families & community and look forward to making history come alive through school activities, at-home learning resources, recognitions and celebrations.

Below are several resources that support the celebration of Black History, in February & beyond!

During the month of February, Hillsborough County Public Schools will make literacy a significant part of Black History Month by hosting a district-wide African American Read-In (AARI). The National African American Read-In (AARI) is a groundbreaking effort to encourage communities to read together, centering African American books and authors.

Welcome to the HCPS African American Read-In Resource provided by the District's FACE Department/Volunteer Services. This resource consists of materials for schools that plan to host an in-person read-in or virtual read-in. Links for engaging virtual read aloud of books or poetry written by African American authors or about the African American experience are available.

District Leadership Read Aloud - YouTube videos will be shared for students to enjoy recorded "read alouds" by School Board Members and HCPS District Leaders during the month of February.

YouTube Link: AARI District Leadership Read Aloud

City of Tampa Day (Date TBA) - Join us for live readings by Mayor Jane Castor for Elementary, Middle and High Schools (via TEAMS), moderated by the District's FACE Department. There are also recorded presentations by City of Tampa employees for schools to enjoy throughout the month.

Link: Mayor's Live Readings Date/Times

Link: City of Tampa Virtual library

Notable Readings – Titus O'Neil has also provided a recorded presentation for schools to enjoy throughout the month. Review opportunities and view the presentations to determine if they are appropriate for your class/age group and plan to share the presentations with students during the month of February.

Renaissance myON - 2022 African American Digital Read-In

Hillsborough County – THE CHALLENGE

Hillsborough County Public Schools is hosting a special reading challenge designed to celebrate the contributions and history of African Americans.

Curated lists of age-appropriate myON titles are available. All students are encouraged to participate by reading as many books as they can during the month of February!

Time spent reading will be recorded automatically within the myON platform.

If students are reading offline, they should be sure to log back into myON with the WiFi before February 28 so their reading activity is included in their school's total minutes read.

SCHOOL WINNERS IN EACH REGIONAL AREA

The schools in each of the regional areas with the highest average minutes read on myON during February will be recognized with a school banner and a set of incentives for internal recognition.

Winners Will Be Announced the Week of March 7, 2022!

Black History Month Door Displays

Let's raise the bar for classroom door decorations in celebration of Black History Month, with artistic student displays. Not only can decorated doors aim to celebrate inspirational black heroes who have made history, but they can also empower students and jumpstart dialogue.

Here are a few Black History month classroom door ideas/themes:

Be Brave Like Ruby (Ruby Bridges). Don't Forget the Crown (Phenomenal Woman/Maya Angelo). Wakanda Forever. They Left Their Stamp on the World-Will You? Getting to the Heart of Black History. Black Wall of Excellence. This is Us. Hidden Figures. Strength of Our Roots. Where Will You End Up in History? Blast from the Past. Make Your Dream a Reality. Who Am I (Inventors)? Words Have Power. From Struggle Comes Strength. Our Freedom Quilt. Who Invented It? HER story and HIS story...And more!

Let's allow our learner's creativity to shine!

12 Black American Pioneers Who Changed Healthcare | Everyday Health

In honor of Black History Month, Everyday Health recognizes the achievements of 12 trailblazers in health sciences and wellness. These pioneering men and women helped change the course of healthcare and race relations in the United States. They invented first-of-their-kind medical devices, developed innovative surgical procedures, paved the way for improved patient access to quality care, and raised awareness about quality-of-life issues.

Their legacies live on in hospitals and clinics, doctors' offices, schools, universities, and research laboratories. As we amplify Black History in the context of a global pandemic, it is paramount that we celebrate Black pioneers who have made contributions in the health space and cleared the path for others to follow.

These clinicians, researchers, and advocates championed and advanced medicine in our country and beyond.

Black History – Student Art & Essay Contests

Countless contributions of African Americans continue to shape our communities. During Black History Month, schools can recognize and celebrate our champions of service who have made our communities stronger and better through art and essay contests. These could also be inclusive of African American educators within our schools who go above-and-beyond to serve our learners.

Schools are encouraged to establish site-based academic and creative contests around our HCPS Community Champions!

Black History – Spotlight of the Day (Student News Show)

As we celebrate Black History Month, schools can honor African American innovators and influential individuals, by spotlighting them on the student news show. This is an incredible opportunity for the entire school community to learn “together” about the many influential African Americans and the impact they have made our community and our state.

Celebrating African American Achievements Raymond O. Shelton School Administrative Center (ROSSAC) Lobby Display

As our district highlights Black History Month, we plan to showcase artwork celebrating African American Achievements in the ROSSAC Lobby during the month of February.

The exhibition includes a display of artwork created by student artists enrolled in Hillsborough County Public Schools. The artwork shows creative expressions and artistic styles inspired by African American artists such as Alma Thomas, Ashley Bryan, Faith Ringgold, and Jean-Michel Basquiat. (The range of visual art created also draws upon the cultural traditions in Africa and other parts of the world while celebrating African American heroes here in the United States.

Keep your eyes open for this creative, innovative and striking work provided by our learners!

Southern Cuisine – Food Truck Day (at ROSSAC)

To help us celebrate Black History Month, we will have Soul Food Truck Day during the month of February. We are delighted to have Mr. B's meals (available for purchase) for our district staff and those visiting the district office, on Tuesday, February 22, 2022.
